

We are delighted to announce our Football Premier League Predictor 23-24 developed by one of our wonderful Fundraising Ambassadors; Mark Hallam.

In taking part in this Premier League Predictor competition, you will be supporting Edward's Trust, your local bereavement charity – supporting bereaved children, young people and parents in the West Midlands.

The Premier League Predictor 2023-2024 (PLP23-24)

The spreadsheet on the link below is self-explanatory but do contact me (Mark) if you need any clarification. Cost of entry is set at £20 per entry. This might seem a little steep, but the competition does last 10 months (£0.50 per week) so represents great value and it's a great way of raising money to help support a vital service offering free, qualified and experienced bereavement support which receives no Government funding.

What's in it for you, apart from the Kudos ? – well already we have a donation of a framed and signed England football shirt... On top of this we are writing to every Premier League Team asking for a donation of signed shirts or footballs etc – so you could end up picking something that means more to you. There will be multiple prizes to be confirmed once the season gets under way. That said the season kicks off on Friday 11th August so time is of the essence. Cut-off date for entries will be Friday 18th August. I guesstimate it will take approx. 10 mins to fill in the spreadsheet (follow link below) – last season's results are also on there as a guide.

You may have to enable editing and then save to your desktop before emailing it back to me please: mark.hallam@travelcounsellors.com

Once you have done this, your entry will be added to a master spreadsheet and your progress updated periodically throughout the season – we may even have some spot prizes around Christmas and as always, a wooden spoon prize for coming absolutely bottom of the league. Unlike fantasy football, your participation in this is just a one off unless of course you get 5 of your family and friends to enter if you do you will be awarded a second entry free of charge just make sure their entry form contains your name in the sponsor box. Finally, all I ask of you is to make your donation of £20 to Edward's Trust (after which I will process your entry)

You can either do this through their online shop here or if you don't have PayPal or would rather, you can pay into the following account using PLP23-24 as the reference.

Account Name: Edwards Trust Ltd.

Account Number: 17605060

Sort Code: 30-98-90

Once Edward's Trust receive your entry fee donation, they will inform me and I will validate your entry confirming your participation by Email.

All that remains is to thank you in advance and wish you the best of luck!

Mark Hallam
